

Samy Hendawy was selected by a prestigious educational institute in Saudi Arabia. It is the "number one school in Saudi Arabia" (i.e. Dar Al Forqan School). He was awarded last year's TEACHER OF THE YEAR as he was first in the Key Performance Indicators (KPI). Adding to his achievements there, he designed and edited the English staff newsletter. Samy was happy to receive the TCLP cohort invitation, and expressed that his TCLP experience has inspired him with a lot of professional insights. He says he will never forget his days in the USA.

When the TCLP cohort leader called Abdel-Rady Hussein, he was enjoying the beautiful scenery of Dammam, KSA. The TCLP cohort expressed their congratulations to him for the brilliant achievements he made in a short period of time. He has finished his Educational Technology diploma at the AUC. Also, He was chosen to be granted a teaching fellowship for his TAFL Master's at the AUC. He was accepted as ESL teacher in Victory College International Schools. He is now an ESL instructor at Al Bassam High Institute, Dammam, KSA. He was very pleased with the TCLP cohort connection, expressing that the TCLP experience has always pushed him forward for more achievements.

On completing his TCLP, Ibrahim El-Kadi went through a highly competitive competition held by the Egyptian Ministry of Education to choose the best teacher in the whole country. Ibrahim has achieved a lot so far, and he has now proved to be the Best Ideal Teacher in the whole governorate (Gharbeia). He has also gone further and he has been beating all the competing teachers, and he is about to be chosen the Ideal Teacher of Egypt. He has gone through all the obstacles so far, and he hopes he will be able to be selected the Ideal Teacher of the whole country. In this case he will be able to compete for this title worldwide. The TCLP cohort said they will nominate him, being convinced that he deserves it. Ibrahim said he will never forget the days with the TCLP staff and colleagues. Best of Luck, Ibrahim!

Following a new philosophy of selecting the efficient young teachers to be principals for the best schools in Egypt, the Ministry of Education has chosen Ezzat Gadelmola to be the principal of Bani Mazar Experimental Language School. His success in the USA schools through the TCLP has supported this selection. He has been moving his school into higher positions and the school staff have noticed the great change he has made for the school. Ezzat is in continuous contact with the TCLP cohort and he was very happy to be invited to the 2010/2011 TCLP Facebook group. The TCLP members have expressed their best wishes for him for more success in his leadership experience.

Ez Eldin Salem is still in contact with Plymouth High School. Laura (PHS mentor teacher) has continued Arabic as a critical language at PHS since the two years of TCLP grant have ended. Ez is volunteering Arabic classes for Plymouth High School students through Skype. He is also finalizing his master degree from Alexandria University on English Literature. He says that the most important and valuable award he has been granted in the past year is being selected by his TCLP fellow teachers to be the leader of the 2010 TCLP cohort. Ez has helped in selecting the current TCLP teachers as a member of the selection committee. He says that the TCLP experience has always been a reason for most of his professional achievements. He is pleased to see that his fellow teachers are making such great professional achievements.
